"Cannes, a city where congresses set the pace for the year, where the weather is always pleasant and where the Mediterranean Sea brightens up your days."

THE COLLEGE

The Collège International de Cannes is a local institution set in 10,000m² of wooded grounds, specialising in language learning. Since it was founded in 1931 by Paul Valéry, the school's aim has been to bring people together through learning.

This is a long-standing project, perpetuated by enthusiastic teachers and pupils who are keen to learn new languages and discovering new cultures.

In addition to its cultural and events offering, the Collège International de Cannes provides vocational training that is adapted and adaptable to all, in a welcoming and intercultural context.

A genuine educational and professional "toolbox", the Collège International de Cannes is a unique place that offers complete and versatile programmes.

An aerial photograph of a coastal town. In the foreground, there are several buildings with terracotta roofs and a swimming pool surrounded by palm trees. A road with cars is visible in the middle ground, and a sandy beach with many people and umbrellas is in the background. The ocean is a vibrant blue-green color.
